

At first glance the wire item was something calculated — an international relay. It came from Norfolk, Mass., and told that a couple of prisoners in the Massachusetts state penal colony — one of whom had only a grammar school education — met England's Oxford university debate team this week and defeated them.

A sardonic item, for sure — Educated Bloke vs. School of Hard Rocks, excusing the inexcusable pun.

Of course the penitentiary was more scenery. The play is the thing — and plays are made by men. What did American convicts and English scholars find in the way of a universal subject to debate about? How about the judges — were they competent and impartial so there could be no question about the visitors' defeat being strictly on the up and up? And the two convicts — what about them, besides just a couple of numbers?

Well, the debate subject was: Resolved, That there should be free national health service. The British took the affirmative — and the American negative moved the men down.

The judges? Former Governor William S. Flynn of Rhode Island; Dean Erwin N. Griswold of the Harvard Law School; and Massachusetts Court Judge Harold P. Williams. I submit to you that only the Archangel Gabriel was missing.

The business took place at the prison. Four hundred convicts listened closely as the young English visitors, Richard Taverner and William Rees-Mogg, traded words with the spokesmen for the 400 — all that the prison officials would give us by way of names was "Murt" and "Bill." But they were dressed up, formal-like, for the occasion — and after it was all over the winners and their fellow convicts gave the visitors prison-made cigarette-lighters, wallets, and wood-carvings.

What about these numbers "Murt" and "Bill"? Lower-case characters, in the eyes of the law — but good for at least one capital performance.

"Murt," 40, went to school only through the grammar grades; but the prison says he has educated himself all the 10 years he's been there.

"Bill," 30, finished high school and did a term or so in law school. Then he went to prison. And he's a "repeater" — back for a second stretch.

"I'll take 'Murt' — you can have 'Bill'."

"Murt" is the case of a man who, for one reason or another, never got a basic education; but the potential was there. I'm dodging the penitentiary matter. The pertinent fact is that he had the interest and drive, late in life, to do voluntarily what formal schooling makes compulsory: Study.

This is not a commentary on the folly of acquiring a formal education. That would be as foolish as saying you ought to go to prison in order to meet the Oxford debaters and get your name in the paper. Our man didn't even get that — just anonymous "Murt."

But on that prison debate stage, confronted by England's best, I think "Murt" spoke for that whole host of anonymous men who are, for the most part, self-educated. Men who have discovered the true universality of learning, either repairing the gaps in their formal education or improving upon what they actually got in school by ceaseless study.

There is a tide in the affairs of some which makes college the high point — and ebbs forever after. Glib at 20, at 40 they would be unable even to prepare for that Oxford debate, much less win it. To have had so much spent on them they are tragic penitents.

But "Murt," despite the words in the lawbook and the stripes on his back, is a cousin of the men for whom the earth moves.

Hungary to Try American Fliers as Spies

By The Associated Press
The Iron Curtain shuttered the lights of Christmas joy in the homes of four American airmen today.

Communist Hungary, obedient to the public hopes of Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky, announced last night it is going to try the four fliers on the ground they deliberately flew into Hungary "with the criminal intention of dropping spies."

The four fliers are Capt. Dave Henderson of Shawnee, Okla., Capt. John J. Swift of Glens Falls, N. M., Sgt. James A. Elam of Kingsland, Ark., and Tech. Sgt. Jess A. Duff of Spokane, Wash.

At least two of the men—Swift and Duff—had been expected home for Christmas with their families until their twin-engine C-47 cargo plane was forced down in Hungary by Soviet fighter planes Nov. 19.

American officials said they got lost over Hungary while on a flight from Erding Airbase, Germany, to Belgrade, Yugoslavia, with supplies for the American Embassy in Belgrade.

News they will be tried struck their families like a blow. The kind-folk-and the U. S. State Department had hoped the men would be released soon.

The families of the four men were quick to express their indignation and grief.

"Oh, my God," cried Mrs. Swift. "This is certainly a low blow." She had expected her captain-husband home in Glens Falls for Christmas.

She said she will try to have Christmas as usual for their 5-year-old daughter Leslie and 3-month-old son David.

But Mrs. James Duff, mother of the 31-year-old flight engineer on the plane, said, "We'll have no Christmas."

She said at her home in Spokane: "Jess is certainly no spy. He's a mechanic."

In Shawnee, Okla., Capt. Henderson's sister, Mrs. Jimmy Barnwell, said her parents were "torn up" over the news of the impending trial. The captain's father, D.H. Henderson declared: "I don't see how they can be tried as spies. After all, they were in uniform and carrying out orders."

Mrs. King Leo Elam, mother of Sgt. Elam, took a dim view of her son's chances with a Communist court. "It would be something different if he could get a fair trial," she said at Kingsland, Ark.

The Elam family will go ahead with its Christmas plans for the radio operator-sergeant's 12-year-old brother, Sidney.

Kefauver Still Eying the Nomination

Washington, Dec. 22 (AP)—Senator Kefauver said today he probably will decide early in 1952 whether to seek the Democratic presidential nomination.

The Tennesseean, who headed the senate crime investigating committee, told a reporter he wants to "appraise the situation further" before making up his mind.

On the other side of the political fence, Republicans backing Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for the White House made ready to open a Washington campaign office in his behalf—still without any public go-ahead from the general.

Senator Duff (R-Ia.), a leader of the Ike-for-President group, called a news conference in connection with the formal opening of the office here in the Shoreham hotel. The national headquarters is in Topeka, Kas.

There was no advance indication that Duff would be in a position to do more than reiterate that he is sure Eisenhower will be available as a candidate "under the proper circumstances."

Duff made that statement earlier this week without detailing the circumstances. He added then that he would not presume to say when Eisenhower would announce his candidacy.

The general has declined to say publicly whether he will bid for the GOP nomination. He hasn't said publicly, either, whether he is a Republican, but Duff and others supporting Eisenhower have declared they are sure he is.

Kefauver familiar to millions who watched the crime committees televised hearings, touched also on the Eisenhower boom in response to questions. He said the possibility of Eisenhower's bidding for the GOP nomination vote influence his decision on whether to seek top spot on the Democratic ticket.

Kefauver previously has said that, if he decides to be a candidate, he will stay in the contest regardless of whether President Truman announces for another term.

State Prisoners Total 68

Washington, Dec. 22 (AP)—The confirmed number of Arkansians on the Communists' list of prisoners of war has climbed to 68.

Added yesterday to those previously listed by the Defense Department as known prisoners was Lt. James L. Stone, 1st Cav. Div., son of S. L. Stone, Pine Bluff, Ark., and Mrs. Idell Walker of Hot Springs.

The Reds says Stone is held at Pyok-Dong.

Maid Testifies Tallulah Hired Escorts

New York Dec. 22 (AP)—Tallulah Bankhead's former maid—secretary says she paid some of the bills for dates the actress had with her leading man, William Langford.

Mrs. Evelyn Cronin, accused of raising the figures on 26 of Miss Bankhead's checks, adds that 13 of these checks served to reimburse her for money advanced to Langford.

The 50-year-old Mrs. Cronin gave this testimony yesterday just before her trial on forgery and larceny charges was adjourned until Wednesday. The white-haired defendant admits raising the checks, but claims Miss Bankhead directed her to do so.

"Every week while they were at the Plymouth Theater in New York," Mrs. Cronin said, "I gave something to Mr. Langford."

She said she paid him at Miss Bankhead's direction. The defendant added:

"He would take Miss Bankhead out. I wouldn't be there so I would pay him back out of my own money and reimburse myself with the checks."

Langford, who is 27, played with the 48-year-old Miss Bankhead in "Private Lives" here and on tour during 1948 and 1949. He accompanied the red-haired stage, screen and radio star to General Sessions Court 10 days ago when Mrs. Cronin's trial opened.

Prosecution objections prevented Mrs. Cronin's replying when her attorney, State Sen. Fred G. Moritt, asked if she knew whether Langford and Miss Bankhead "were lovers."

Moritt at the start of the trial had said Mrs. Cronin used the $4,284 from the raised checks to pay for "marijuana, cocaine, booze and sex" for the actress.

Judge Ward W. Stevens had ruled this angle was irrelevant, and Miss Bankhead was not questioned on the matter when she appeared this week as a prosecution witness.

However, the actress has said out of court that these charges were lies and that they were intended to make her drop the case against Mrs. Cronin.

Take a Tip From Boyle and Marry the Girl Christmas — You Will Never Forget It

By HAL BOYLE
New York, Dec. 22 (AP)—It is impossible to let this joyous season go by without giving an humble footnote of appreciation to women.

Have you ever pondered what this season of good will toward men would be if there were no women alive to have a feeling of good will toward them?

It is during thoughtful pauses like this in the world's stormy history that the true value for femininity is felt.

It takes no student of human nature to observe that womanhood takes to the Christmas season like untutored duck to water. After merriest of all is the unmarried female.

She may laugh and joke about season, but she has an eye on a quarry—a poor unmarried male who just went to a Christmas party dazedly ends up being engaged to a gal he knows he couldn't whip in a fair fist fight.

After that, even though he later has five children, he tries to get them to go a psychiatrist when ever they profess a belief in Santa Claus.

Marriage has destroyed this man's faith in Christmas. And I think this is a rather sad thing. Just because he met and married

Watermelon Pulled Friday By W. H. Rateliff

A volunteer watermelon in almost perfect condition was pulled from a vine on W. H. Rateliff's farm just south of Hope yesterday.

The melon, a Congo variety, somehow survived temperatures that went as low as 14° degrees. Mr. Rateliff was bird hunting when he found the melon.

Assessment Mark Is 20 Per Cent

Little Rock, Dec. 22 (AP)—Arkansas will shoot for 1952 property tax assessment at 20 per cent of true value.

That percentage was fixed as a "uniform standard" yesterday by the state public service commission.

What this means is that taxpayers are expected to assess their real and personal property at an average of 20 per cent of the property's actual worth. Taxes then are figured, at fixed rates, on the basis of assessments.

The PSC action puts the assessment "standard" back at its old level. Last year the now defunct Arkansas Tax Commission upped the assessment level to 50 per cent.

The public service commission, which inherited the tax commission's duties last July 1, and it decided upon 20 per cent "as being more realistic."

Dream Barges Serve as Ideal Home

Amsterdam, Dec. 22 (AP)—Your dream bungalow may turn out to be a dream barge if you are a young couple looking for a home in this land of canals.

Barges are just as comfortable as bungalows. They cost less to buy and the tax collector isn't a beeey man to the barge dweller.

Holland has an acute housing shortage. Its present population is about 10 million, double the population of 50 years ago. The building industry, interrupted by two wars and invasions, just hasn't kept pace. Now the rearmament program is a complicating factor.

It's no wonder home seekers are turning to barges. A good barge costs around 8,500 guilders (about $2,200). A bungalow of comparable living facilities runs around 14,000 guilders.

A barge varies from 400 to 520 feet long and 12 to 15 feet wide. The biggest barge costs 14,600 guilders including water pipes and electrical wiring.

But a barge owner pays no personal taxes. He is subject to a berth tax of about six or seven cents a day.

Before the last war only 5 house boats were registered. The present number is about 400 with 300 of them in Amsterdam.

Yet buying a barge is a project that is too expensive for many Dutch couples. They must pin their hopes on the cooperative housing projects. The list of applicants is long. As soon as a baby is born his name is placed on the list.

Burgomaster Mayor Arnold D'Ailly of Amsterdam cited recently the case of a family of 11 found living, eating and sleeping in a single room. He found nine families of seven members each living in two room apartments. There are 744 Dutchmen to the square mile.

Doing Something About Hungry World

Los Angeles, Dec. 22 (AP)—Men who sail the seas know that a lot of the world is hungry. Aloysius F.E.P. Mozier is one sailor who is doing something about it.

Mozier, a merchant marine officer, distributes 10-cent packages of seeds to needy people in the five countries he visits regularly.

He has handed out 15,000 packets of seeds since last June, when he asked a hungry farmer in India: "Why don't you plant something to eat if you are starving?"

The answer he got was, "We have no seeds." In six months Mozier's campaign already is bearing fruit. Farmers in Korea, India, Greece, Israel and Morocco have reported successful crops from seeds he provided.

Increase in Price of Cars Allowed

Washington, Dec. 22 (AP)—An increase of almost five per cent in the price of Hudson automobiles—apparently the first of new higher ceilings for nearly all cars—has been authorized by the Office of Price Stabilization OPS.

Hudson sought, and received, a 4,801 per cent boost in its wholesale job prices at the factory, OPS said. The increases would range from $90 to $145 per car at retail, if Hudson decides to pass them on to buyers.

Hudson and all other major auto manufacturers but Chrysler applied for price increases under the Caphart amendment to the new economic control law.

The amendment, named after Senator Caphart (I-Ind) and attacked by President Truman as inflationary, permits new price ceilings based on certain cost increases since Korea fighting began.

Hudson and Kaiser-Frazer were the first auto-makers to apply under the Caphart amendment. Applications then followed from Ford, Studebaker and General Motors.

Chrysler has not disclosed its plans. Before Hudson can increase its prices OPS said, it must propose new dollars-and-cents ceiling and a new factory retail price list. These would be effective five days after they are filed.

Ceiling increases asked yesterday by General Motors were 4.41 per cent on Cadillacs, 4.46 per cent on Buicks, 5.14 per cent on Chevrolets, 5.30 per cent on Pontiacs and 6.11 on Oldsmobiles. These would come to about $6 on one model of a Chevrolet four-door sedan and about $103 on one model of a Cadillac four-door sedan.

Other requested increases included: Fords, 5.39 per cent; Mercurys, 4.37 per cent; Lincolns, 8.33; per cent.

Studebaker Commanders, 6.07 per cent; Studebaker Champans, 7.8 per cent.

Kaiser — Frazer Henry J's, 28.49 per cent; Kaisers, 24.33 per cent.

Identification of Prisoners Complete

Washington, Dec. 22 (AP)—The Pentagon Casualty Section, just about finished with its round-the-clock task of identifying 3,108 Americans listed as prisoners of war in Korea, has knocked off for the Christmas holiday.

Further inquiries about names on the list will be answered after Christmas. The section re-opens Dec. 26 following the four-day holiday authorized for all government employees.

When it quit last night, the agency reported it had notified relatives of 3,108 men on the Communist-supplied roster of Korea POW's. Three names could not be matched with missing in action records it said, and the remainder posed "special problems" of confused identities.

Of the 3,108 identified, casualty officers said 3,020 are soldiers. The other 88 are fighting men of the Navy, Air Force or Marines.

With the bulk of its work out of the way, the casualty section began double-checking. Officials noted a few discrepancies—such as missing names and some confusion as to the total number—and sent a request for further investigation to Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's headquarters in Tokyo.

They asked Tokyo officers to go over the list for possible errors in transmission to this country. The fact the roster is completely unofficial has been stressed time and again. The Reds have consistently refused permission to inspect POW camps or check prisoner identities.

In Korea, the United Nations command also expressed skepticism. A "stiffly worded" note demanded an accounting of some 1,000 U. N. soldiers, including Americans, not recorded as prisoners of the Communists.

Los Angeles, Dec. 22 (AP)—Actress Burt Acquanetta seeks $1,000 month support from Lucian Busch, wealthy Mexico City importer, for support of their five-year-old son, Sergio.

In a suit filed yesterday Acquanetta, 26, asked that Busch be restrained from taking the boy out of California. The actress is now married to artist Henry Clive.

Acquanetta sued Busch, 41, for divorce three years ago, but the court ruled they were never officially married.

Traffic Fatal to 9,000 in Arkansas

Little Rock, Dec. 22 (AP)—Traffic mishaps have killed more than 9,000 persons in Arkansas since the beginning of the automobile era.

The exact number isn't known because no one kept a record of traffic fatalities before 1918. Since then, State Police report, 8,924 are known to have died on the highways and streets of Arkansas.

There were 87 traffic deaths in the state in 1918. The record for one year was 509 in 1941.

State Police yesterday had recorded 408 motor vehicle fatalities for 1951, with 10 days left in the year.

Planes, Ships Lash at Chinese Supply Lines

Seoul, Korea, Dec. 22 (AP)—Allied planes and ships carried the war to the Reds Friday in smashing attacks on Communist supply and communications lines.

Around, United Nations Infantrymen stormed out of their Central Front foxholes and raided a Communist position northwest of Chwon.

Far behind U. N. lines, about Korean forces continued their drive against Communist guerrillas. In hand-to-hand fighting, the U. S. Eighth Army said, 207 Reds were killed and 238 captured Thursday and Friday.

The air force pulled its most spectacular raid in months. U.S. F-84 Thunderbolts swooped down on 17 supply dumps near Unu and set an entire valley ablaze.

Far East Air Force announced that 14 United Nations planes were shot down over Korea during the week ended Friday.

Red ground force accounted for 18. One was lost in an air battle with Communist MIG-15 jets.

During the same period, one MIG was shot down and eight others damaged, the Air Force said.

The Far East Air Force's board of MIG claims signs "the Russian-built fighters first appeared in the Korean war" and stands at 102 destroyed, 51 probably destroyed and 304 damaged. It said the total of all types of Red planes now stands at 320 destroyed, 100 probably destroyed and 380 damaged.

U. S. Fifth Air Force planes flew 477 sorties Friday most of them directed at vital Red life lines from Manchuria to the front lines.

B-29 Superforts attacked the Red airfield at Namal in northwest Korea, and dropped air-bursting bombs in support of Allied Infantrymen.

The Allied raiding party claimed three Red bunkers destroyed in a 50-minute battle with an unknown number of Reds on the Western Front.

Other ground action was reported to be sharp but minor clashes across the front.

Rules Town Can't Issue Bonds

Little Rock, Dec. 22 (AP)—Arkansas attorney general's office says the city of Mountain Home cannot legally carry out its proposal to issue revenue bonds for purchase of an electric distribution system.

City officials want to issue the bonds to buy the system from the Arkansas Power and Light Co. AP & L is resisting the move, and a special election to determine the issue has been set for Jan. 15 in Mountain Home.

An opinion prepared yesterday by Assistant Atty. Gen. Cleveland Holland said neither the state constitution nor the legislature has granted cities authority to issue revenue bonds for purchase of electric systems.

The only kind of bonds which may be issued for this purpose, Holland said, are general bonds, which would constitute a lien against property in the city.

Holland addressed the opinion to "Adequate Carl A. Keys, Mountain Home."

Keys, however, is not a member of the City Council, Mayor Howard Dymally and City Attorney Tom Timon said last night no city official had requested the opinion.

They said Keys is a business man who opposes the proposed purchase.

Would Eliminate Dept. 'Deadheads'

Little Rock, Dec. 22 (AP)—Elimination of "deadheads" and better handling of work and finances has been ordered in the Arkansas Highway Department, whose officials anticipate severe criticism by an investigative body.

The orders were issued by Olen Fullerton, new highway director, and Chief Engineer Alf E. Johnson to district engineers called on the carpet at a meeting of the State Highway Commission yesterday.

Highway Commissioner J. H. Crain of Wilson told the commission that the state highway audit commission would "severely criticize the handling of maintenance."

Crain also is a member of the audit commission, which was established by the 1951 legislature to investigate highway department operations.

Johnson told the district engineers that in some cases they had "overspent allotments" for laborers and that there was evidence of "falsifying of records" and "padding" of estimates on jobs done by department employees.

Fullerton told the district engineers to get rid of "deadheads," folk not earning their money.

BIG SPLSH

Tacoma, Dec. 22 (AP)—Patrolman Norman Clowers was directing traffic on a waterfront bridge last night when he said, an apparently drunk driver headed straight toward him.

Hemmed in, Clowers jumped up on the bridge railing, lost his balance and dived ungracefully into Commencement Bay. He climbed out unhappy but unharmed.

couple drove their car onto a side road 40 miles north of Eveleth late Wednesday. They walked into the woods and became lost as darkness fell.

Maki started a fire against the cold and set up a shelter of branches. At daylight yesterday, he wanted to continue to find the way out. But Mrs. Maki said she couldn't move. After protecting her, he drove into Virginia and sounded the alarm.

Maki directed firemen to where he had parked the car. Three of them then pulled the sled, laden with blankets, four miles into the woods tracing Maki's tracks in the snow.

They found the lean-to. The fire was out. Mrs. Maki was dead.

DOROTHY DIX
Children Are Cruel

Dear Miss Dix: We have one child, a girl 9½ years old. She has been sick quite a bit of her life, and is just beginning to carry on with school work. She has been very slow in school, but with a good teacher this year is getting along well now. Her problem is about being the oldest child in her class. The children in the neighborhood, who are her own age, make nasty remarks to her. She has consequently got into the habit of staying in the house all the time. We live in a nice neighborhood, have our own home and my daughter wants for nothing except companionship. She goes to church and Sunday School, and any child is welcome in our home. I have taught her to be nice to other children, but they won't let her enter their games. How can I help her make friends?

WORRIED MOTHER

Answer: Your problem stems from the mothers of those youngsters in the neighborhood. Realizing that your child has a handicap, they should teach their own children to be particularly nice to her.

No mother is doing a good job of training her family unless she teaches them the fundamental virtues of kindness and compassion. Children themselves seem to have an unattractiveness for cruelty to any of their kind who does not conform to a set pattern. Physical weakness seems to be the chief object of their taunts, although it should be the principal source of their charity.

Talk To Their Mothers

Could you talk to any of the mothers in your section and have them co-operate in getting companionship for your little girl? In addition to her Sunday School and church activities, could you get her into a girl scout or similar group where she would associate more closely with other girls? If there is no such group in your neighborhood, why not organize one yourself? As the leader, you would have very direct, yet discreet, supervision over the child and her friends, and could more easily guide the activities to include her.

As your daughter's health improves, she'll make more rapid strides in school, so that in a short time the disparity in grade will lessen. Companionship difficulties will then disappear. In the meantime, do everything you can to encourage her in group play and to change the attitude of the other children towards her.

Dear Miss Dix: I have discovered, and had my husband confess that he has been having an affair with his secretary for the past two years. He refuses to give her up. We have two children, aged 5 and 1. When his superiors at work heard the gossip about him, they threatened to dismiss him, so in order to save his job he forced me to take the woman into my home. She is still here and my husband says if I don't like it I can get out. I have asked her to leave her job and go elsewhere but she only laughs at me. I could never part with my children but can't stand this situation much longer.

AUDREY D. Answer: You made a fatal error in agreeing to your husband's demands that you take his secretary into your house. Job or no job, you should never have let her come. Now she is really the mistress of the home. She won't leave, you can't put her out, so you're involved in an impossible mess. I advise you to consult the pastor of your church and a lawyer. Don't let your husband know you are seeking advice from any source; get opinions from these men and follow whatever advice they can give you. You and your children cannot live under these abnormal conditions, and only legal aid can show you the way out.

Dear Miss Dix: I am 17 years old and going with a boy the same age. I have also been writing to a soldier who is 21. I am engaged to the boy my own age, but would like to continue the correspondence. Do you think it would be right?

T. A. T. Answer: Both you and your fiance are too young to be engaged. Furthermore the fact that you are anxious to correspond with another boy surely indicates that you don't particularly care for the one you're engaged to. Break the engagement, and send your letters wherever you want them to go. This is much the safest and happiest course for you now. There's plenty of time to find the boy you will love too much to have thoughts for anyone else.

State Death Toll Already at 10

By The Associated Press At least 10 persons have died violently in Arkansas this week—and a travel-heavy holiday week-end is yet to be concluded.

However, only two of the deaths reported since last Monday have been attributed to traffic mishaps. One of these occurred Friday night when J. T. Hensberger, 70, of Barden was struck by an automobile near Barden.

Wilford C. McAttee, 50, of Gravel Hill Saline County was shot to death with a high-powered hunting rifle Friday. Sheriff Pat Berry reported that the victim's son-in-law, Harman Harrison, 32, surrendered to officers and said he fired the fatal shot in self defense. Harrison was held for investigation.

Big Soviet Shakeup Made in Austria

Vienna, Dec. 21 (AP)—A big shakeup in the Soviet occupation command in Austria was reported today.

Western Allied occupation officials speculated that the shake-up heralds a more conciliatory Kremlin policy in four-power relations in this tiny land.

Three deputies to the Russian high commissioner have left Vienna recently and have been replaced. The high commissioner himself, Lt. Gen. V. P. Sviridov, is reported "on vacation."

Russian troops occupy one-fourth of Austria. Britain, France and the United States occupy the rest of the country. Austria is the only place in the world where the Big Four meet regularly to discuss common problems.

The Russians have stalled and prevented the signing of a treaty that would end the occupation of Austria.
